

Cowan, McKenna singled and Hooker followed suit. Hobbs could not locate the plate and walked Anthony.

"With the bases full and one man down, Walsh caught McKenna napping at third and threw him out. Cumming then retired the side by striking out. For the Colts, Sieble drew a fly to McKenna. Wallace singled and Ernie second, but Sieble and Gettler were retired on strikes by Kline.

Kirkpatrick led off with a single for the Shoemakers. In the fifth, but Sieble felled Fishman and Gruner out. First and Hooker fanned Kline. Richmond began the run-getting in her half, and Kline was lucky to get out of the hole in which he had gotten. He walked Cowan and Walsh attempted to sacrifice him to the next corner, but the ball was deflected to second by the effort to catch Cowan and both men were safe. Hobbs drove a fly to Hooker and Heffron hit a high one to Kirkpatrick. With two on the bases, Reeve smashed out a double to left, scoring Cowan and landing Walsh on third. A faster runner would have scored, but Walsh took no chances. Titman walked and the bases were filled, but Hobbs' fly was well handled by Hooker. One run.

In the sixth Bowen was out (Gettler to Cowan). McKenna struck out and Hooker hit to Cowan, who sent the ball. For the Colts, Sieble sent a fly to center, which Hooker squeezed. Gettler fanned and Cowan popped one up to Fishman. Nothing done.

In the seventh, Lynchburg broke the ergs, and but for a sacrifice by Hobbs at a critical moment, would have won the game. Anthony was safe on Gettler's error, and in a series of wild throws reached third. Hobbs, who finally got the ball, threw to the bag to catch Anthony, but there was no one covering it, and the runner scored. Cumming was robbed of a hit by Reeve, who threw him out at first. Kirkpatrick was safe at first on Reeve's bad throw, which took Cowan off the bag, but was thrown out at first on Fishman's drive to Cowan. Fishman being safe. Gruner was safe when Cowan dropped a throw ball. Fishman going to third, but Kline's easy one to Hobbs retired the side, with but one run. For Richmond, Walsh went to Hooker. Hobbs drove a corking two-sacker to left, and Heffron was thrown out at first by Fishman. Hobbs taking third. Reeve walked, but was caught between first and second, and Hobbs, who tried to score, was caught at second by Bowen's throw to Gruner. No runs.

In the eighth Bowen was safe on Gettler's error and McKenna sacrificed him to second by a bunt toward third. Hooker drove a long fly to left-center, which Heffron got, and Anthony struck out. Then Richmond began the run-getting works, and in a succession of errors by the Shoemakers, won the game. Titman got a pass, Wallace was safe when Fishman slipped and fell in attempting to cut off Titman at second. Sieble was thrown out at first by Fishman. Gettler drove one to Fishman, which he juggled and Titman and Wallace scored. Cowan was out, second to first, Gettler taking second and scoring a moment later on Walsh's timely single. Hobbs was safe on Kline's error, but Heffron, the eighth man up, sent a fly to Kirkpatrick. Three runs.

The Shoemakers kept pegging away, undismayed by the lead of the Colts, and gave the crowd a scare in the ninth. Cumming was safe on Reeve's error; Kirkpatrick fanned, but Fishman hit to right-field. Gruner drove a pass and Kline hit one to Sieble, which he bungled. Cumming and Fishman were scoring in the bottom of the ninth. With only one man down and the score 4 to 3, it looked blue for the Colts, but Bowen popped a fly to third and Gettler felled McKenna's rap to first, ending the game. The score follows:
